

THURSDAY OCT 4

Jack Cavanaugh, a veteran sportswriter, radio newsman and author, has tackled the national pastime and its effect on the war effort in his new book, Season of '42: Joe D, Teddy Ballgame, and Baseball's Fight to Survive a Turbulent First Year of War. Season of '42 is much more than a recap of a memorable baseball season. Cavanaugh explores the landing of four German saboteurs on a beach in the "Hamptons" section of Long Island during a June evening in 1942, and the quick thinking of a young Coast Guardsman named John Cullen that ultimately led to their apprehension.
